What I love most about teaching CTE classes is how hands on and active the classes are. Students are learning real world skills that will help them for life, and of course, that I get to watch students grow and learn their craft and passion for years!

For my college and career goals, I wanted to be a meteorologist and, even though I'm not exactly sure yet, I want to go to UC Davis.

I love this pathway because choir has taught me how to stay calm in front of an audience, memorize lines, and to announce. These would come in great handy because I would, most likely, work on the news and give the forecast on TV.

I've been in the theatre program for all 3 years here at Covina. I love theatre, and personally because I love being in the spotlight! I've had a knack for acting when I was younger. But since I've joined this program, it's helped me flourish as an actor/comedian, and I learned how to tap-dance! I would highly recommend anyone who is a bit shy and wants to break out of their shell to join theatre, the friends I've made there can't compare to anything else.

After Covina, I plan to take 1-2 years off before college, to pursue acting full time, or even just doing skits on YouTube or Twitch.
